

ANALYTICAL INDEX.

NOTE.—The object of this Index is chiefly to show the order of the discussion; so that one who cannot find a thing in the "Alphabetical Index" may see where to open the volumes, and look for it among the headings of the sections. It does not attempt a reference to every minor topic.

VOLUME I.

|   | SECTION      |
|---|--------------|
| Nature and Sources of Juridical Law . . . . .  | 1-21  |
| Origin of law and meaning of the term, 1; other and narrower meanings, 2; what is municipal law, 3; of what do legal authors treat, 4; law essential to human existence; 5-7; includes penalty as well as precept, 7, 8; law anterior to government, 9; government does not take cognizance of all the law, 10; technical modifications of the original right, 11-13; how noticed in legal disquisitions, 12; difference between different systems of jurisprudence, 12, 13; illustrations of law without government, 14; law of nations, emigrants carrying law, what law, 14, 15; distinction between the mass of law and the law which the courts enforce, 16-20; judges do not make law, 18; judges follow the law, but apply it to new cases, 19, 20; how these views might be further expanded, 21. |              |
| The Laws of this Country separable into what Classes . . . . .   | 22-29 |
| In one sense, the law indivisible, 22; in another, how divisible, 23-27; mistake, that there is no law which the courts do not administer, 28, 30; necessity of these introductory views, 29.   |              |
| The Criminal Law . . . . .   | 30-42 |
| General view of, 30, 31; definition of, 32; how civil and criminal blend, 33; how subject distributed among the author's volumes, 34; how common law extends to crimes, 35-37; how the English ecclesiastical law, 38, 39; criminal-law authorities, 40, 41; Scotch and other foreign law, 41; combined reason and conscience of mankind, 42.   |              |
| Military and Martial Law . . . . .   | 43-68 |
| How far a consideration of, belongs to this work, 43; what is military law, 44; what martial law, 45, 51, 52; who may proclaim martial law, 45, 48-68; military law harmonizes with the civil, 46; both have their rules, 47, 52; authority of the President as to martial law, 48-68; various constitutional disquisitions, 46-68; query as  |              | to the right of a State to declare martial law, 49, note; President cannot suspend writ of habeas corpus, 63, 64; beneficial effects of martial law, 67, 68.

Criminal Law Authorities . . . . . 69-98
Books of reports, 70-85; old text-books, 80-90; how far authoritative—stare decisis in criminal cases, 91-98.

Crime as Local to a Particular Country . . . . . 99-101

Territorial Limits of the United States . . . . . 102-108
Depend on law of nations, and treaties, 102, 103; how on the ocean, 103, 104; arms of the sea, &c., 105; quasi jurisdiction near the coast, 106; boundaries under treaties, 107, 108.

Jurisdiction of the United States beyond Territorial Limits, 109-123
Generally, not beyond, 109; must be court to try, 109, 111; personal presence out of the country, act in it, 110; illustrations of these doctrines, 111 et seq.; the blow in homicide in one jurisdiction and death in another, &c., 111-116; jurisdiction within ships at sea, &c., 117-120; over crimes committed in other countries, 121, 123; foreign consular jurisdiction, 122, 123.

Persons within our Limits exempt from our Laws . . . . 124-135
Generally, foreigners bound by our laws, 124, 134; exceptions of foreign sovereigns, ambassadors, and the like, 125-128; how, consuls, 129; armed vessels, 130; combatants in war, 131; a foreigner violating our laws by command of his government, 132, 133; otherwise our laws both bind and protect all, 134; fugitives from justice, 135.

Acts punishable both by our and by a Foreign Government, 136-144
General doctrine, 136; larceny in one jurisdiction, and the goods brought into another, 136-142; challenge to a duel, homicide, &c., 143; magnitude of these questions, 144.

Jurisdiction and Local Limits of the States . . . . . 145-155
Outward boundaries, 145; counties, 146, 176; jurisdiction between high and low water mark, 146; arms of the sea, &c., 146, 176; Boston Harbor, 147; New York, Long Island Sound, &c., 148; how on our lakes, 149; the line between States, 150; Chesapeake Bay, &c., 150; local jurisdiction of the States, 151; same, over citizens abroad, 152; command of a State to a citizen to commit a crime abroad, 153; jurisdiction over Indian Territory, 154; concurrent with the United States, 155.

Jurisdiction of the United States within State Limits . . 156-181
Determined by the United States Constitution, 156; has jurisdiction over what is "prohibited to the States," 157; also, beyond local limits of States, 158; also, over forts, dock-yards, &c., 159; of national jurisdiction in States, 160; is complete over States without governments, 161-171; guarantee clause, 161 et seq.; things granted to the United States and not forbidden to States, 172 et seq.; maritime jurisdiction, 173; over inland navigable waters,

174-176; by reason of the nature of the thing, 177-179; States and United States as to power over respective officers, 180; jurisdiction over consuls, 181.

Whence Power of United States outside State Limits . . 182-188
Grounds of the jurisdiction, 183-186; District of Columbia, 187; the territories, 188.

Common Law, how far a Rule of Decision within United States Jurisdiction . . . . . 189-203
The general doctrine, with reasons, 189-197; as to the criminal law, 198-202; how in District of Columbia, 203.

Combined Act and Intent essential to Crime . . . . . 204-208 a
Must be act, 204; intent, 205; how combine, 206-208.

Public Good and Desert of Punishment to combine . . . 209-211

Criminal Thing to be of Sufficient Magnitude . . . . . 212-229
General doctrine and maxims, 212-215; magnitude of the intent, 216-222; magnitude of the act, 223-229.

How far a Wrong, to be Indictable, must be Public . . . 230-254
General views, 230-234; indictable public wrongs, 235-249; indictable private wrongs, 250-254.

Wrong in Injured Person and his Consent to the Act . . 255-263
Distinction between civil and criminal, 256, 258; no defence to indictment that injured person is also in wrong, 257; effect of consent, 259-261; plans to entrap into guilt, 262, 263.

Civil and Criminal Liabilities from same Transaction . . 264-278
Civil suits and criminal, for the same act, may go along together, 264, 265; how as to criminal informations, &c., 266; exceptions in cases of felonies, 267-277; how judicial decisions to be viewed, 278.

Ex Post Facto Laws . . . . . 279-284

General View of the Doctrine that an Evil Intent is essential in every Crime . . . . . 285-291

Ignorance of Law as excusing Crime . . . . . 292-300
General doctrine that it does not, 292-296; real or apparent exceptions, 297-300.

Mistake of Fact as excusing Crime . . . . . 301-310
General views, 301, 302; prisoner to be judged as though facts were as he believes them, 303-310.

Combined Ignorance of Law and Fact . . . . . 311, 312

Carelessness and Negligence . . . . . 313-322
It is criminal to be careless, 313; how illustrated in homicide, 314; other illustrations, 315, 316; responsibility for acts of servant, 316, 317; ox used to gore, 318; careless selling of liquor, 318; setting fire to out-house, 318; the doctrine in libels, 319; not applicable in all offences, 320; carelessness less criminal than positive wrong intent, 321.

The Intent producing an Unintended Result . . . . . 323-336
 No crime where intent is right, 323; unless there is carelessness, 324; meaning ill and doing good not intended, 325, 326; where act, wrongly meant, produces unintended evil, 327; illustrations, 328-332; distinction between malum in se and malum prohibitum, 333; how intense the evil in intent, 334; doctrine not applicable in all crimes, 335; its complete proportions not yet developed, 336.

More Intents than One operating together . . . . . 337-345
 Men influenced by combined motives, 337; the law notices only its own motives, 338, 339; illustrations, 340, 341; two intents required in some crimes, 342; generally, necessary only to intend what law forbids, 343; conscience disapproving the law, 344; when intent must extend beyond the statute, 345.

Necessity and Compulsion . . . . . 346-355
 Act compelled by necessity not criminal, 346; illustrations, 347-349; degree of necessity which excuses, 350-353; necessity overruling statutes, 354; command from superior, 355.

Coverture as Constraint on the Will excusing Crime . . . . . 356-366
 Coverture excuse for crime under some circumstances, 356, 357; the rules governing, with illustrations, 358-366.

Infancy as taking away the Capacity for Crime . . . . . 367-373

Want of Mental Capacity . . . . . 374-396
 No crime where no capacity to entertain criminal intent, 375; old books unsafe guides, 375, note, 377; magnitude of insane delusion, &c., 376; Freeman's Case, 376, note; unsafe to follow the old cases, 377, 378; distinction between the law and evidence, 378; great variety of phases of insanity, 379; how judges instruct juries, 379; monomania and intermittent insanity, 380; concerning a test of insanity—how instructions to jury should be, 381-396; moral and homicidal insanity, 387, 388; various views, 389-391; delusion, 392-394; new forms of insanity, 395; distinctions, 396.

Drunkenness as excusing the Criminal Act . . . . . 397-416
 General doctrine, 397-403; its limitations, 404-416.

Capacity of Corporations for Crime . . . . . 417-424
 Nature of corporation, 417, 418; neglect indictable in corporation, 419; also, misfeasance, 420; limits of doctrine, 421-423; members indictable for corporate wrongs, 424.

By what Words the Intent indicated in Legal Writings . . . . . 425-429
 General views, 425, 426; "wilfully," 427, 428; "maliciously," "malice aforethought," &c., 427, 429.

General Nature of the Act required . . . . . 430-442
 The doctrine in general, 430, 431; in conspiracy, neglects, attempts, &c., 432-435; nature, progress, &c., 436; substantive offences in nature of attempts, 437 et seq.; ignorance of justifying fact, 441.

How Subject of Criminal Law divided . . . . . 443-449
 Blackstone's divisions, 444; objects of divisions, 445; divisions in this work, 446-449.

Protection to the Government in its Existence, Authority, and Functions . . . . . 450-480
 Introductory view, 450, 451; government and people mutually dependent,—historical illustration, 452-455; right of governments to regulate labor, 453-455; treason, 456; smaller crimes of like nature, 457; refusal to hold office, 458; malfeasance in office, 459, 460; liabilities, civil and criminal, of officers, 459-463 and note; officers de jure and de facto, 464; obstructing officers, &c., 465-467; obstructing justice generally, 468; refusing to assist officer, 469; slanders of officers, assaults on them, &c., 470; offences against the purity of elections, 471; spreading false news, 472-475; political slanders, 478; counterfeiting the coin, &c., 479; other acts within this title, 480.

Protection to the Relations of the Government with other Governments . . . . . 481-485
 General view of offences under this head, 481-485.

Protection to the Public Revenue . . . . . 486-488

Protection to the Public Health . . . . . 489-494
 Importance of this interest, 489; acts violating it, 490, 491; quarantine regulations, &c., 492; statutory offences traceable to this head, 493, 494.

Protection to Religion, Public Morals, and Education . . . . . 495-508
 Importance of these interests, 495; offences growing out of an established religion, 496; unknown in this country, 496; how far Christianity is a part of our common law, 497; profane swearing and blasphemy, 498; observance of the Lord's Day, 499; offences against public morals, 500 et seq.; various forms of lewdness, 500-503; corrupting public shows, 504; gaming, &c., 504; other offences against public morals, 505, 506; offences against education, &c., 507, 508.

Protection to the Public Wealth and to Population . . . . . 509-529
 Several offences against population, 509-511; expatriation, 512; mayhem, &c., 513; destruction of one's own property, 514; vagrancy, 515; other like offences, 516; owling, 517; forestalling, regrating, engrossing, 518-529.

Protection to the Public Convenience and Safety . . . . . 530-532
 Nuisances, &c., 530, 531; innkeepers refusing guests, 532.

Protection to the Public Order and Tranquillity . . . . . 533-543
 Introduction, 533; riots, routs, &c., 534; affrays, &c., 535; other breaches of peace, 536-540; barratry, maintenance, &c., 541; disturbance of public meetings, 542; general views, 543.

Protection to Individuals . . . . . 544-593
 Introduction, 544, 545; two kinds of force, 545; personal preservation and comfort,—as to homicide, assault, injuring sick person by noise, kidnapping, &c., robbery, rape, abduction and forcible marriage, abandoning child, &c., medical malpractice, burglary, arson, &c., mental and moral force, &c., 547-564; acquiring and retaining property, — as to larceny, robbery, receiving stolen goods, embezzlement, malicious mischief, destroying vessels, cheat, false pretences, forgery, fraudulent conveyance, extortion, &c., and as to moral and physical force, &c., real estate, personal, choses in action, &c., magnitude of the act, &c., 565-590; reputation, 591; combinations to commit private injuries, — as to conspiracy, witchcraft, 592, 593.

Protection to the Lower Animals . . . . . 594-597 a
 Not generally protected, 594, 595; on collateral grounds, 596; and under statutes, 596; public cruelty, 597; conspiracies, 597 a.

Outlines of Divisions and Distinctions in Law of Crimes . . . 598-606
 Dividing into specific offences, 599-601; into treason, felony, &c., 602, 603, 605; attempt, accessory before, &c., 604; further views, 606.

The Three Grades—Treason, Felony, and Misdemeanor, generally . . . . . 607-610

As to Treason . . . . . 611-613

As to Felony . . . . . 614-622
 What is felony under common law, 614-617; what, under statutes, 618-622.

As to Misdemeanor . . . . . 623-625

Proximity of the Offender to the completed Crime . . . . . 626, 627

Combinations of Persons in Crime . . . . . 628-643

The Principal Actor — as to Felony . . . . . 644-654
 Introduction, 644, 645; principal actors are of two degrees, 646; the general doctrine of guilt, 647; what a principal of the first degree, what of the second, 648; what a principal in distinction from an accessory, 649 et seq.; innocent agent, 651; advising to suicide, &c., 652; what presence necessary to make one a principal, 653, 654.

The Principal Actor — as to Treason . . . . . 655

The Principal Actor — as to Misdemeanor . . . . . 656-659
 All guilty persons are principals, 656; in light misdemeanors, some not guilty who would be were the crime heavier, 657-659.

The Accessory before the Fact, &c. — the General Doctrine, 660-671
 This distinction relates primarily to felony alone, 662; what is an accessory, &c., 663, 664; how in statutory felonies, 665; accessory follows principal, 666; convicted only with or after principal, 667; how discharge of principal discharges accessory, 668; some other points, 669-671.

The Accessory before — as to Felony . . . . . 672-680
 What is, &c., 672-674; how become accessory before, 675-677; how in manslaughter, &c., 678; how in petit larceny, 679, 680.

The Accessory before — as to Treason . . . . . 681-684

The Accessory before — as to Misdemeanor . . . . . 685-689

The Accessory after — as to Felony . . . . . 690-700 a

The Accessory after — as to Treason . . . . . 701-704

The Accessory after — as to Misdemeanor . . . . . 705-708

Compounding . . . . . 709-715
 What it is, 710; some crimes too small, &c., for compounding them to be offence, 711; compounding penal action, 712; compounding misdemeanor, 713; receiving civil amends for criminal injury, 714; offences analogous to compounding, 715.

Misprision . . . . . 716-722
 What it is, 717; differences of opinion as to guilt of, 718; the common-law doctrine, 719-721; under United States statute, 722.

Attempt — as to the General Doctrine . . . . . 723-730
 Endeavors which are not attempts, 724; on what principle, definition, &c., 727, 728; nature of the intent and how acts combine with it, 729, 730.

Attempt — as to the Kind of Intent . . . . . 731-736
 Intend what indictable if fully done, 731; change of purpose, 732, 733; various other views, 734-736.

Attempt — as to the Kind of Act . . . . . 737-769
 Being in condition to perform, adaptation of act to contemplated end, legal capacity to commit full offence, present ability, impossibility, mistake of fact, &c., with various illustrations, 737-753; magnitude of act, and proximity to consummated offence, 759-764; further of the particular sort of act, 765-769.

Attempt — as to Combination of Act and Intent . . . . . 770, 771

Attempt — as to the Degree of the Crime . . . . . 772

Attempt — summary of the doctrine . . . . . 772 a

Methods of the Law's Defining of Crime . . . . . 773-785
 Surplusage of wrongful acts, names of offences, cutting up transactions into crimes, distinction between transaction and crime, more crimes than one out of one transaction, crimes within crimes, committed in different ways, &c.

Merger of Offences . . . . . 786-790

Relations of Offences mutually and to Criminal Transaction . . 791-815
 General doctrine, 791, 792; limitations and further illustrations, 793-803; exceptions and further limitations, 804-815.

Quasi Crime in Rem . . . . . 816-835
 Only quasi of criminal law, &c., 817, 818; principle on which property forfeited when held contrary to law, 819; distinguished from other things, 820; illustrations and various doctrines concerning, 821-835; abatable nuisances, 828, 829; constitutionality of statutes creating this forfeiture, 831-835.

Defence of Person and Property . . . . . 836-877
 Introduction, 839; defence divided into imperfect and perfect, 840, 841; perfect, explained and illustrated, 842-848; when perfect defence permissible, when not, 849-859; imperfect, 860-863; summary of right to defend one's person, 864-874; same of property, 875, 876; assisting one another, 877.

The Criminal Law as to the Domestic Relations . . . . . 878-891 a
 Introduction, 878, 879; parent and child, 880-884 b; guardian and ward, 885; teacher and pupil, 886; master and servant, 887-889; husband and wife, 890-891 a.

Relations other than Domestic . . . . . 892-896
 Principal and agent, 892; freedmen, 893, 894; lawyer and client, 895; physician and patient, 896.

Pardon . . . . . 897-926
 Introduction, 897; definition — distinguished from amnesty, 898; in whom powers of pardon and amnesty, 899-901; English law as authority with us, 902; at what time granted, 903, 904; fraud and concealment, 905, 906; delivery and acceptance, 907; construction, 908; limits of power, 910-913; full or conditional, 914, 915; effect, 916-919; United States and States, 920; some practical views as to granting pardon, 921-926.

The Punishment by Sentence of Court . . . . . 927-958
 Effect of erroneous sentence, 927-932; what punishment, by whom awarded, how, 933-953; in joint convictions, 954-958.

The Punishment for an Offence subsequent to the First . . . 959-965
 General doctrines, and the procedure.

Consequences of the Sentence by Operation of Law . . . . 966-977
 Outlawry, attainder, 967; forfeiture on attainder, 968; forfeiture consequent on flight, 968; reasonableness of doctrine of forfeiture and corruption of blood, 969; not generally received in this country, 970; received as to forfeiture of office, 971; effect on capacity to be a witness, 972-976; cannot be a juror, 977; other effects, 977.

No Second Jeopardy for same Offence — General View . . . 978-994
 Introduction, 978, 979; English doctrine of no second jeopardy, 980; American, and whether English decisions authoritative with us, 981, 982; jeopardy in foreign country, in another State, and between United States and States, 983-989; to what classes of offences applicable, 990, 991; defendants and government distinguished as to, 992-994.

No Second Jeopardy — Waiver by Defendants . . . . . 995-1007
 General doctrine of waiver, 995, 996; illustrations, 997; applications to second jeopardy, 998 et seq.; discharge of jury, insufficient verdict, absence of prisoner, arrest of judgment, new trials, conviction of part, &c., 998-1007.

No Second Jeopardy — Sham Prosecution procured by Defendant . . . . . 1008-1011

No Second Jeopardy — Rules to determine when there has been a Jeopardy . . . . . 1012-1047
 General views, 1012; at what stage in the prosecution the jeopardy attaches, 1013-1019; preliminary things of record, 1020-1029; impossibilities not of record, 1030-1036; further doctrines as to jury, and when may be discharged, 1037-1041; review of doctrines on principle, 1042-1047.

No Second Jeopardy — Rules to determine when the Offences are the Same . . . . . 1048-1069
 To make them so, the indictments need not be alike, 1049, 1050; rules, 1051-1064; distinction between the law and evidence, 1065, 1066; different concurrent penalties for same act, 1067; under by-law and statute, 1068; civil suit and criminal, 1069.

The Doctrine of Autrefois Attaint . . . . . 1070

The General Doctrine of Nuisance . . . . . 1071-1082

Bawdy-house . . . . . 1083-1089

Letting or selling House for Bawdry . . . . . 1090-1096

Combustible Articles . . . . . 1097-1100

Common Scold . . . . . 1101-1105

Disorderly House . . . . . 1106-1112

Tippling Shops . . . . . 1113-1117

Disorderly Inns . . . . . 1118

House in which Offences are committed . . . . . 1119-1121

Eavesdropping . . . . . 1122-1124

Exposure of Person . . . . . 1125-1134

Gaming-house . . . . . 1135-1137

Offensive Trades . . . . . 1138-1144

Public Shows . . . . . 1145-1149

Wooden Buildings and the like . . . . . 1150, 1151

VOLUME II.

Affray . . . . . 1-7

Arson and other Burnings . . . . . 8-21
 What is a burning, 8-10; what a house, 11; ownership or occupancy of house, 12, 13; means and intent of the burning, 14-16; statutory burnings, 17; degree, attempt to burn, terror, &c., 18-21.

| § 22-273  | ANALYTICAL INDEX. | VOL. II.  |
|---|-------------------|-----------|
| Assault . . . . .   |                   | 22-62     |
| Definition, &c., 22, 23; the force as being physical, 25-29; put in motion, 30, 31; fear or peril, 32-34; effect of consent, 35, 36; force unlawful, 37-41; aggravated assaults, 42-54; degree, punishment, connection with other crimes and with attempts, statutory assaults, civil and criminal, the intent, attempts, &c., 55-62.   |                   |           |
| Barratry . . . . .  |                   | 63-69     |
| Battery . . . . .   |                   | 69 a-72 e |
| Blasphemy and Profaneness . . . . .   |                   | 73-84     |
| On what principle indictable, &c., 73-75; doctrines peculiar to blasphemy, 76-78; to profaneness, 79; common to both, 80-84.  |                   |           |
| Bribery . . . . .   |                   | 85-89     |
| General doctrines, 85, 86; degree of the crime, punishment, 87; attempts, 88, 89.   |                   |           |
| Burglary and other Breakings . . . . .  |                   | 90-120    |
| Definition, &c., 90; the breaking and entering, 91-100; the time, 101-103; place, 104-108; intent, 109-117; statutory breakings, 118; consent, second jeopardy, degree, punishment, &c., 119, 120.  |                   |           |
| ChamPERTY and Maintenance . . . . .   |                   | 121-140   |
| Nature of these offences, &c., 121; maintenance, 122-130; champerty, 131-135; buying and selling pretended titles, 136-140.   |                   |           |
| Cheats at Common Law . . . . .  |                   | 141-168   |
| Introduction, 141, 142; general doctrine discussed, 143, 144; nature of the symbol or token, 145-158; nature of the fraud involved, 159, 160; public cheats, 161-164; connection with other crimes, degree of the offence, punishment, attempts, false pretences, &c., 165-168.   |                   |           |
| Conspiracy . . . . .  |                   | 169-240   |
| General doctrine stated and discussed, 169-179; element of law of corrupt combination, 180-190; element of law of attempt, 191-195; application of these elements to particular relations and things, 196, 197,— as, conspiracies to defraud individuals, 198-214; to injure them otherwise, 215-218; to disturb government and justice, 219-225; to create breaches of peace, 226; to create public nuisances, &c., 227-229; concerning wages and the like, 230-233; otherwise to injure both public and individuals, 234, 235; statutory conspiracies, 236-238; merger, grade of offence, punishment, 239, 240. |                   |           |
| Contempt of Court and the like . . . . .  |                   | 241-273   |
| Nature of the subject, &c., 241, 242; against what tribunal or assemblage, 243; against justices of peace, 244-246; against legislative bodies, ministerial officers, public meetings, &c., 247-249; by what act,— as, general doctrine, judicial contempts, in presence of court, in absence, against justices of peace, &c., &c., 250-263; viewed as indictable, 264-267; consequences, and how proceed against offender, 268-273.  |                   |           |

| VOL. II.  | ANALYTICAL INDEX. | § 274-671 |
|---|-------------------|-----------|
| Counterfeiting as to the Coin . . . . .   |                   | 274-300   |
| Views of the English law, 274-279; laws of United States, 280-282; State laws, 283-287; meanings of some particular words in these laws, 288-298; grade of offence, &c., 299, 300.  |                   |           |
| Disturbing Meetings . . . . .   |                   | 301-310 a |
| Duelling . . . . .  |                   | 311-317   |
| Embezzlement . . . . .  |                   | 318-383   |
| History, statutes, and general view, 318-330; classes of persons embezzling, 331-351; confidence in person embezzling, 352-355; thing embezzled,— as, generally, 356-359; "by virtue of his employment," 360-364; master's possession, 365-368; ownership, mixing fund, &c., 369, 370; act of embezzling, 372-378; intent, 379; degree of offence, punishment, attempts, State and United States, constitutional questions, &c., 380-383.   |                   |           |
| Embracery . . . . .   |                   | 384-389   |
| Extortion . . . . .   |                   | 390-408   |
| Why indictable, definition, &c., 390, 391; committed only by officer, 392; color of office, 393; how within legal prohibition, 394, 395; corrupt, 396-400; what obtained, 401, 402; statutes, 403, 404; grade, punishment, one not officer abetting, threat, &c., 405-408.  |                   |           |
| False Pretences . . . . .   |                   | 409-488   |
| Statutes and general doctrines, 409-414; what a false pretence, 415-459; what concur with it, 460-475; what property obtained, 476-484; degree, punishment, locality, attempts, &c., 485-488.   |                   |           |
| Forcible Entry and Detainer . . . . .   |                   | 489-516   |
| Definition, general doctrines, &c., 489-491; old English statutes, 492-496; ownership, estate, or possession, 497-503; act constituting, 504-513; restitution of possession, 514; degree, civil and criminal, husband and wife, &c., 515, 516.  |                   |           |
| Forcible Trespass . . . . .   |                   | 517-520 a |
| Forgery of Writings with its Kindred Offences . . . . .   |                   | 521-612   |
| Nature, &c., of forgery, 521, 522; definition and general doctrine, 523, 524; the writing, at common law, 525-532; its legal efficacy,— as, general doctrines, valid or not on face, stamped or not, fictitious name, &c., 533-547; the writing in statutory forgeries, statutes, constructions, meaning of particular words, &c., 548-571; the act of forgery,— as, in general, altering genuine instrument, executing instrument as agent, making original false writing in one's own name, different persons of one name or address, by stratagem procuring one to sign writing, question of similitude, &c., 572-595; the intent, 596-601; progress toward effecting fraud, 602, 603; offences depending on and growing out of forgery, 604-608; degree, punishment, United States and States, forged instrument as false token, 609-612. |                   |           |
| Nature of Felonious Homicide, and Historical View . . . . .   |                   | 613-628   |
| What Homicides are indictable . . . . .   |                   | 629-671   |

What are Murder and what Manslaughter . . . . . 672-722

Murders in the First and Second Degrees distinguished . . . 723-730

Degrees in Manslaughter . . . . . 731

Leading Doctrines of Indictable Homicide epitomized . . . 732-738

Attempts to commit Murder and Manslaughter . . . . . 739-743

Some Remaining Questions as to Felonious Homicide . . . 744, 745
Degree, accessories, former jeopardy, punishment, conviction for part.

Kidnapping and False Imprisonment . . . . . 746-756
In general, 746; false imprisonment, 747-749; kidnapping, 750-756.

General Doctrine of Larceny . . . . . 757-760

The Property of which Larceny at the Common Law may be committed . . . . . 761-781

The Property of which Larceny under Statutes may be committed . . . . . 782-787
In general, 782, 783; things attached to the soil, 784; choses in action, &c., 785-787.

The Ownership of the Property in Larceny . . . . . 788-793

The Asportation in Larceny . . . . . 794-798

The Trespass required in Larceny . . . . . 799-839
General doctrine, 799-803; kind of force required, 804-810; consent to the taking, 811-822; what possession owner must have and thief not, 823-839. Note.—This discussion embraces most of the subtle distinctions in larceny.

The Intent required in Larceny . . . . . 840-852

Larcenies of Particular Things and by Particular Classes of Persons . . . . . 853-883
By servants, 853-856; by bailees, 857-871; by wives and persons receiving from them husband's goods, 872-874; treasure-trove, wreck, seaweed, &c., 875-877; lost goods, 878-883.

Some Remaining Questions as to Larceny . . . . . 884-891
Grand and petit, degree, punishment, accessories, attempts, misprisions, transaction how divisible, locality, State, and United States, &c.

Compound Larcenies . . . . . 892-904
General doctrines, 892-894; from the person, 895-899; from particular places, 900-904; postal offences, 904, note.

Libel and Slander . . . . . 905-949
General views, 905, 906; definition and nature of, explaining general doctrines, 907-927; different kinds of,—as against the public, private persons, on the dead, on government, obscene, 928-944; verbal slander, 945-947; degree, participants, attempt, what a publication, 948, 949.

Violations of the Sabbath, or Lord's Day . . . . . 950-970
At common law, under statutes, constitutional provisions, &c., 950-952; meanings of statutory terms, 953-964; repetitions amounting to nuisance, 965; other offences connected with this, 966, 967; civil questions, judicial process, observing another day as Sabbath, the intent, &c., 968-970.

Malfeasance and Non-feasance in Office . . . . . 971-982
By justices of peace, &c., 971-977; by sheriffs, &c., 978, 979; by other officers, 980-982.

Malicious Mischief . . . . . 983-1000
Definition, &c., 983; the property, 984-991; act of mischief, 992-995; intent, 996-998; English statutes in force with us, 999; degree of offence, 1000.

Mayhem and Statutory Maims . . . . . 1001-1008

Obstructing Justice and Government . . . . . 1009-1013

Perjury . . . . . 1014-1056
Distinguished from other like offences, 1014; how defined, 1015; the oath and tribunal, 1017-1029; materiality, 1030-1042; falsity, 1043, 1044; intent, 1045-1048; statutes, English and American, 1049-1053; degree, punishment, attempts, subornation, 1054-1056.

Piracy . . . . . 1057-1063

Prison Breach, Rescue, and Escape . . . . . 1064-1106
Definitions, nature, &c., 1064-1067; viewed as accessorial, 1068, 1069; substantive offence of prison breach, 1070-1084; of rescue, 1085-1091; of escape, 1092-1106.

Rape . . . . . 1107-1136
Historical view and definition, 1107-1115; the man, 1116, 1117; the woman, 1118, 1119; kinds of force, 1120, 1121; what consent precludes rape, 1122-1126; the carnal knowledge, 1127-1132; carnal abuse of children, 1133; degree, punishment, aiders, attempts, 1134-1136.

Receiving Stolen Goods . . . . . 1137-1142 a

Riot . . . . . 1143-1155
Definition, &c., 1143; person committing, 1144-1146; nature of act, 1147-1151; intent, 1152; degree, aiders, &c., conviction for minor offence, former jeopardy, attempts, 1153-1155.

Robbery . . . . . 1156-1182
Definition, &c., 1156, 1157; the larceny, 1158-1165; the violence, 1166-1173; the fear, 1174-1176; what is deemed the person of the one robbed, 1177, 1178; degree, combinations of robbers, attempts, second jeopardy, robbery in dwelling-house, highway, 1179-1182.

Rout . . . . . 1183-1186

Self-murder . . . . . 1187

Sepulture . . . . . 1188-1190

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| Sodomy . . . . .  | 1191-1196  |
| Subornation of Perjury . . . . .  | 1197-1199  |
| Threatening Letters and the like . . . . .  | 1200, 1201 |
| Treason . . . . .   | 1202-1255  |
| General views, 1202-1204; English law of, 1205-1213; against United States, 1214-1236; against the States, 1254, 1255.  |            |
| Unlawful Assembly . . . . .   | 1256-1259  |
| Usury . . . . .   | 1260-1263  |
| Way . . . . .   | 1264-1287  |
| General views, 1264, 1265; kinds of way of which the obstruction and neglect to repair are indictable, 1266-1271; act of obstruction, 1272-1279; condition of repair, in which way must be put and kept, 1280; person or corporation responsible for non-repair, 1281-1283; degree, punishment, sentence, abatement, guide-posts, &c., 1284-1287. |            |