I talked to Andrée Leduc on 9 June 2011 re my letter by telephone at approximately 14h00.

1) Concerning the first paragraph of my letter, she said that:

- she did not have the right to open my web page;
- she could not open my web site;
- when she tried to log in, she read "Access Denied" on the screen
- there was a regulation under the Act that forbid her to open the web page. When asked what that regulation or procedure was, she did not want to tell me.

2) I asked her who her supervisor was and she said that it was Patricia Coldrey-Lo.

3) I asked her why she said that I had already made a complaint to the RCMP if she did not read my correspondence. She said she noted that I had written to Commissioner Elliott. I said that was not a complaint but a request to investigate. I said that my complaint was that the RCMP refused to investigate.

4) she hung up on me.
